

VET Development Symposium

Current Situation and Development of Further Education and Research in Vocational Education and Training in Sub-Saharan Africa

Invitation

The Namibia University of Science and Technology and the University of Rostock would like to invite you to the VET Development Symposium in Windhoek Namibia, 23th to 25th August 2016 at Namibia University of Science and Technology in Windhoek

In Sub-Sahara Africa, the current situation and development of Vocational Education and Training (VET) and especially education of the vocational educators is confusingly complex. International Scientists of the VET sciences are enabled to analyse and reflect the current situation of VET in Sub-Saharan Africa and in their countries. You will be informed about current findings in the international scientific discussion on VET and VET networks. The symposium with participants from Sub-Saharan, European, Asian and American countries offers a unique opportunity to bring together scientists and to open up the discussion on VET and the education and further education of the vocational educators. In line with the previous strong academic interest on the concept of competence, the purpose of the symposium is to explore ideas, news, research findings, case examples and discussions on “competence” in further education in VET contexts.

In order to achieve this objective, the purpose of the symposium is subdivided into three parts:

- 1. Vocational Education and Training - Basics for teaching and research at universities
- 2. Establishment of a VET-system with focus on further education
- 3. Concepts or conditions of success for a networked VET learning and teaching, especially for further education

We would like to invite you to the symposium (without any fee)!

Please confirm your participation by sending an email to Ms Carol Millward at cmillward@nust.na by Friday 29 July 2016, as space is limited.
